BASSANO REALTY MOVING FAST

Bassano and its Extension will be Too Small Next Year to Accomodate Population — R. C. Pegler and Murchison & Hames make Many Transfers.

Since the finding of the natural gas a few weeks ago there has been a renewed inquiry for Bassano real estate and many sales are being made by our realty dealers. R. C. Pegler and Murchison & Hames report several transfers within the last couple of weeks, and enquiries are pouring in from all quarters, including Ontario, British Columbia and all parts of the States. Before the end of December Bassano will be incorporated as a town, then will follow local improvements such as street grading sidewalks, etc. The merchants of the town are at variance as to what the influx of population will be next spring, but they all agree that Bassano, with its extension, will hardly be sufficient to accomodate all the incomers.

Within the last ten days Mr. R. C. Pegler, the wide awake real estater, has made a large number of transfers, many of which he's not at library to publish, but the following list will give you an apercu how lots are selling:

Mr. Dawson 2 lots.
Robert Patterson 2 lots.
Frank Patterson 2 lots.
Albert Secrist 2 lots.
Edward English 1 lot.
Mrs. McNainy 1 lot.
Mrs. Fitzsmannans 1 lot.
T. Robinson 1 lots.
Mrs. S. Robinson 1 lots.

Murchison & Hames have also been having a busy time of it. They have many large deals pending. Following is a partial list of business closed:

½ of 25, 21,10 to Caldwell & Jamieson.
Lot 15, Block 15 to H. L. Brunton.

A ¼ section in the Dead Horse lake district has also been sold.

CENTRAL OFFICE OF C.P.I.C. IN BASSANO

Fifteen Townships of Irrigated Land to be Sold at Bassano. — Large Contingent Expected from Norway.

The Canadian Pacific Irrigation Colonization Co. have decided to make Bassano their central office and in consequense it will be their busiest point outside of Calgary. For that purpose, they have thrown on the market the central section of the irrigation block, which includes fifteen townships. This section lies east of range 17 to Crowfoot and Service Berry creeks and includes all the territory between the Red Deer and Bow rivers. A smal portion of this area has already been sold but there still remains about 15 townships.

Great interest is being manifested in this section of the irrigated block. Enquiries are being received daily from all parts of the world. A large contingent from Norway is expected shortly that will take up an extensive area.

The motor cars are kept constantly in use taking out prospective buyers. It is more than likely that next spring this area will all be sold.

TAKING A VACATION

Col. Egan, who has been a valued member of the NEWS staff since its establishment eight months ago, left last week for his home in Seattle, where he will spend the winter with his family. To Col. Egan, who is a veteran of coast journalism, the NEWS owes much of its success both as a business venture and a newspaper, and his place will be hard to fill. He expects to return to Alberta in the spring and the NEWS hopes to be able to again enlist his services. Meanwhile, it wishes him a pleasant and well earned holiday.

COUNCILLORS MEET

Bassano Brass Band Granted $100 — C.P.R. to Donate Fire Bell.

A meeting of the town council was held on Monday, November 7 and a considerable amount of work was done.

The treasurer was authorized to issue cheque in favor of Wm. Hood, for the erection of the firehall, although several councillors were not totally satisfied with the workmanship.

The secretary reported that a census of the town had been taken and that the population of Bassano is now 565.

The chairman and secretary were instructed to borrow $1,100, to provide for current expenses.

The secretary was authorized to advertise the sale of village debentures in a Toronto paper, same to bear interest at 7 per cent.

The secretary was instructed to write to Supt. Taylor, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, stating that the town is in need of a fire bell and requesting the company to donate one.

A deputation from the Bassano band promoters waited on the council and asked for a subscription to assist in the formation of the band. The council donated $100, providing there would be sufficient funds left after all accounts were settled.

The secretary was authorized to instruct the constable to destroy all dogs for which the owners have not taken out a license, and that if these instructions are not carried out that he be discharged.

WHAT CAN I DO FOR MY SKIN-TORTURED BABY?

Is the Despairing Cry of Thousands of Mothers. A Scotchwoman Tells How Her Child was Cured.

"What can I do for my skin-tortured baby?" How many worried, worn-out mothers, whose children are suffering with eczema, tetter or other torturing, disfiguring humor, have asked themselves this question! Through neglect or improper treatment, some minor eruption has developed into a distressing and unsightly affliction. Simple treatments fail, and stronger ones are tried, sometimes so harsh that the suffering is increased rather than allayed. Even professional aid has proven useless, and the fear is ever-present that the skin disease will become chronic, turning the child's future into a nightmare of physical and mental misery.

Such mothers, who have witnessed their children's suffering and who have undergone the long, sleepless nights and distracting anxiety which they alone can realize, will understand the gratitude that prompted this letter from Mrs John Ewan, 5, Victoria St., Inverurie, Scotland, and will read it with keenest interest:

"I use Cuticura Soap steadily for my baby's skin. She had the eczema when she was three months old. She was in an awful mess all over her body. We never thought she would get over it. We sat with her night and day for about a month, expecting every minute to see her die. The doctor gave me an ointment to rub her with but it did her no good. My mother was home from America and she told me to try Cuticura Ointment and to wash her with Cuticura Soap. There was a great difference when I used the first box. It seemed to soothe her and she slept. I used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and she was quite cured. She has the purest skin and is the fattest baby now! She is a miracle, the doctor declares. I am glad to tell anybody about it."

And that the success of the Cuticura Remedies is not confined to the treatment of eczema, is amply proven by Mrs. M. A. Schwerin, 674 Springwells Ave., Detroit, Mich., who writes:

"When my little Vivian was about six months old, her papa had a boil on his forehead. At that time the child was covered with prickly heat and I suppose in scratching it her own head became infected, for it broke out in boils, one after another. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her of them entirely. We do not think any one can praise Cuticura Remedies too highly."

That mothers may test the efficacy and economy of the Cuticura Remedies for themselves, the Potter Drug and Chem. Corp., 121 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass., will send free on application, a generous trial box of Cuticura Ointment, sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of eczemas, rashes, itchings and scalings of the skin and scalp. Under the influence of Cuticura Ointment, the itching and burning stop, the child falls into a refreshing sleep, the mother rests, and for the first time, perhaps, in many weeks, peace falls on a distracted household. The Cuticura Remedies are sold by druggists everywhere.

STARVING MAN'S GIFT.

Poor Norwegian's Gratitude to Surgeon Who Saved His Life.

Ever since he was first called to attend the late Queen Victoria, Sir Frederick Treves, who has been on a visit to the King at Balmoral, has been very popular with all the members of the royal family, and among the many favors which have been conferred upon him is the very rare distinction of being allowed to add to his shield one of the lions from the Royal Arms. Sir Frederick was born at Dorchester fifty-seven years ago, and when he was four-and-twenty, and a surgeon with all his way to make, he married a Dorchester lady, Miss Annie Mason. Four years later he found himself Hunterian Professor of Anatomy and Wilson Professor of Pathology at the Royal College of Surgeons, and thereafter went from high to higher. He was consulting surgeon to the British forces in South Africa, and was with the Ladysmith relief column, for which he is in possession of a medal and three clasps. The famous surgeon is the author of many valuable surgical books, and is credited with having performed 1,000 operations for appendicitis without a single death. Sir Frederick has in his possession a coin to which a touching story is attached. Many years ago a poor Norwegian was taken to a big London hospital from an illness which prevented him from earning his living. Sir Frederick operated upon him, and completely cured him of his trouble. Some weeks afterwards the man called upon Sir Frederick at his private residence, and, much to his surprise, presented him with a coin. At first Sir Frederick refused to take it—but the man would not be put off. "It is now three years since I left my native land," he said, "and before I came away my wife gave me this coin and told me never to part with it unless I was starving. It is not worth anything to you, but the value to me I cannot express. When I was in hospital I made up my mind that you should have it. Since you cured me I have been starving, but I would not part with the coin because I wanted you to have it as a small return for saving my life." "What magnificent piece of jewellery," says Sir Frederick, when he tells the story, "could equal the value of that coin?" Sir Frederick was educated at the Merchant Taylors' School, and his recreations have been set down as boat-sailing and sea-fishing.

Judged by Taste.

Professor Sir James Dewar, F.R.S., the distinguished chemist, who has completed his sixty-eighth year, knows more about being frozen than any man living. He has liquefied air and also liquefied oxygen, and in doing so he reached a degree of low temperature beside which the clime of the Arctic regions would seem tropical. His first pint of liquid air cost him something like $5,000, and he was the co-inventor with the late Sir F. Abel of the explosive cordite. Apropos of his name, Sir James tells an amusing story of how, when in the highlands of Scotland one summer, he stopped at a farm-house for a cup of milk. "What a superb place to live in," he remarked to the farmer. "Oh, aye," he answered, "it's a' right; but hoo wad ye like to hae to walk fifteen mile ilk a time ye wanted a wee glass o' whisky?" "Why don't you get a bottle and keep it in the house?" Sir James suggested. The farmer shook his head sadly and said, "Whisky won't keep." Sir James has also related a good golfing yarn. A fellow who did not play the game himself was one day walking over the course while his host was playing. The host was a duffer, and in teeing off tore up a good deal of earth. Finally, to hide his confusion, he remarked to his guost, "What do you think of our links here?" The visitor, wiping the dirt from his lips, replied, "Best I ever tasted!"

Celebrated His Majority In Prison.

The Earl of Leitrim, who has been entertaining a series of visitors at Mulrov, his place in County Donegal, has always taken a deep personal interest in the management and improvement of his estate, which covers 52,000 acres. He offers every encouragement to his tenants to avail themselves of the Land Purchase Acts, and to become owners of the land they till. Lord Leitrim, who is one of the largest landowners in the North of Ireland, is great-nephew to the third earl, whose murder on his own estate caused so profound a sensation about thirty years ago. He succeeded to the title when a boy of thirteen. Soon after coming of age he married, in 1902, Miss Violet Henderson, the daughter of a former governor of the Bank of England. They have no son, and the heir-presumptive is Lord Leitrim's brother, an officer in the navy. The earl fought in South Africa with the Irish Yeomanry, and celebrated his majority in the Boer prison at Nooitgedacht.

Land Falls at High Tide.

According to the report of Professor Milne to the British Association, land adjoining the shore falls as the tide rises. By means of a seismograph placed one and a half miles from the shore at Bidston, Cheshire, it was found that the average deflection due to tidal effects represented a change in slope of about one inch in sixteen miles. The violence of the change appears to depend upon whether the tide rises slowly or whether it rises rapidly and to an unusual height.—London Chronicle.

Burials In Coffins.

Burial in coffins in England was not usual until about 1700 or even later. While the right to naked burial was not denied, it was questioned whether our forefathers could insist upon the privilege of being inclosed in "a big box, perhaps imperishable," and so laid in the earth. At Farnham about 1680 only fourteen out of fifty-five persons buried were buried in coffins.—Manchester Chronicle.

MISERABLE WITH DYSPEPSIA

Another Wonderful Cure By That Wonderful Fruit Medicine "Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. Mathias Dery, of 225 Church street, Ottawa, Ont., was treated for years by physicians for Painful Dyspepsia. He spent so much money for doctor's medicines without getting much relief that he had about made up his mind that his case was hopeless.

Seeing "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, however, Mr. Dery thought he would invest 50c in a box of these wonderful fruit juice tablets.

And this famous fruit medicine did for Mr. Dery what all the doctors could not do—it cured him.

He writes:—"Fruit-a-tives" positively cured me of severe Dyspepsia when physicians failed to relieve me."

The best medicine in the world for little ones is the medicine that will promptly cure all their little ills and at the same time can be given the very youngest baby with absolute safety. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. They never fail to cure the ills of childhood and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they do not contain one particle of injurious drug. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:

A Yankee while visiting friends once tucked his napkin into his collar to protect his clothing at his breakfast. He laughed as he did it, and said it reminded him of a man he once knew who rushed into a restaurant, and, seating himself at the table, proceeded to tuck his napkin under his chin. He then called a waiter and said, "Can I get lunch here?"

"Yes," responded the waiter, in a dignified manner, "but not a shampoo."

Stone 84 Feet Long

What is thought to be the largest "flitch" of stone free of all defects ever quaried in a single piece in the Indiana stone belt has just been quarried at Stinesville. The stone is 84 feet long, 14 feet deep and 4 feet 4 inches thick. It contains 5,096 cubic feet and weighs in the aggregate 815,360 pounds. Delivered in New York the stone would be worth approximately $5,000.

John Smith had worked for the corporation for forty odd years, and decided to retire. The company, in consideration of his long and faithful service, arranged to give him a monetary recognition. The superintendent of the works, a German and an extra good mechanic, was asked to present it. "John you haff work for the company over forty years?"

"Yes."

"You are going to retire?"

"Yes."

What It Contained

A well-known physician was walking down one of the main London thoroughfares with his five-year-old son when they were obliged to stop to await the passing of a funeral procession.

The youngster had never seen anything of the kind. His eyes widened. Pointing to the hearse (an enclosed one), he asked:

"Dad, what's that?"

"In that, my son," said the physician, with a grim smile, "is a mistaken diagnosis."

In fact, the entire Stable—inside and out—should be built of Concrete.

This is the modern material—it has the merits of sightliness, endurance, and economy—and is sanitary.

The farmer himself can, by its use, make many little improvements that, with any other material, would require the employment of skilled labor.

"That steps should be taken to arrange for an international peace conference at which an attempt should be made to establish a universal policy of opposition to international warfare.

"That it is the unanimous desire of the working classes of Canada that there should be federal legislation regarding co-operation in order to save them from the clutches of capital.

"That Provincial autonomy should be conserved.

"That the age of children eligible for employment should be raised to sixteen years.

"That there should be legislation making compulsory the weekly payment of wages in cash, and in cases where employees are discharged or where the employee leaves the service of his employer, all wages due must be paid within twenty-four hours, the employer being held responsible for expenses consequent upon his failure to comply with the law properly."

THOMAS TAIT ADVISES VICTORIA

Urges This Colony to Advertise Its Resources to the Rest of the World

Melbourne.—Thomas Tait, who is retiring from the position of manager of state railways in Victoria, in order to return to Canada, made an important speech at a demonstration in his honor. He urged upon his hearers the necessity of advertising the resources of Victoria abroad. He was able to draw upon his experience in Canada and quote examples of how progress had been quickened by advertising.

Regret has been expressed generally at the resignation of Mr. Tait. The magnificent prosperity of the Victoria government railways at present is considered to be largely due to his administrative ability. It is understood that he does not propose to re-enter the railway world but will devote his attention to his private affairs in Canada. It is now known that he made a confidential statement to the premier last June of his intention to resign. The public announcement would have been made had not the Richmond railway accident and inquiries arising therefrom precluded Tait from making any statement of the kind. He was bound to wait until some decision had been reached by the government as to the apportionment of the responsibility for that disaster.

PETITION FOR REPRIEVE

Submits That Owing to Statements by Newspapers Crippen Had Fair Trial

London, Eng.—The petition for the reprieve of Crippen is a lengthy document of about twenty-five hundred words. It submits that upon evidence produced most serious and grave doubt exists as to the guilt of the prisoner, and that he had always denied it.

The whole subject of guilt turns upon the question whether the remains found are those of Cora Crippen (Belle Elmore).

It adds that doubt had been expressed by medical men as to whether the crown had established the identity of the remains, and speaks of the most unfair and unjudicial way in which Dr. Pepper's opinion was slavishly followed by other medical witnesses called by the crown.

The petition closes by contending that owing to the statements made by the newspapers, it was absolutely impossible for Crippen to have a fair and impartial trial.

Philadelphia, Penn.—That the woman supposed to be Belle Elmore Crippen, for whose murder Dr. Crippen is under sentence of death, has been under surveillance for the last five days somewhere in the middle West was stated by the head of a private detective agency here. He refused to state the place where he had located her, but said she could not be interviewed and gave the impression that she is being detained in a sanitarium.

Lemieux Represents Canada Ably

London.—The correspondent of the Times at Capetown, S. A., says Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is unusually recognized as the ablest and the most distinguished of the delegates from the other Dominions. The problems of race and language are always delicate subjects for discussion at such gatherings as those which are now taking place, but Mr. Lemieux has succeeded in steering a course between more meaningless optimism and an appearance of lecturing. His speeches are admirable in form as they are in substance.

Programme for Next Conference

London.—The following subjects are included in the agenda of next year's imperial conference: All Red route, penny postage within the empire, the proposal of Australian government for a British state-owned cable between Great Britain and Canada, and the laws of naturalization.

FAVORS NEW TARGET

Major General MacKenzie Has Few Words About the General Conditions

Ottawa, Ont.—A tall man with an iron grey moustache, rather bald and face shows the effect of many hard campaigning in Africa and by its deep-seated tan. This is General Colin MacKenzie, O.D., ecently arrived in Ottawa to suc- General Sir Percy Lake as in- r-general of the Canadian a.

suppose there will be consider- progress following General Sir French's report," he said, in r to a question.

ll there be any radical es?"

on't suppose ther will. I think eport is merely a criticism of details, such as is made when the imperial forces are inspected. Suggestions are contained in it as to where improvements can be made in the drilling; modifications are suggested, etc. I am not aware that there was a strong adverse criticism.

"Of course, you must understand I am here only in an advisory capacity, to give the military council the benefit of my experience, which has been somewhat wide and varied. I have nothing to do with making any changes. The Canadian people themselves must do that."

Major-General Mackenzie is a strong advocate of the figure target shooting for rifle practice as against the bull's-eye shooting; which still is the principal method in Canada.

"It has almost disappeared in England," he said, "and in Europe has been quite done away with. Of course, bull's-eye shooting is a very enjoyable sport, and perhaps a little more interesting than figure shooting, but the latter is accepted by best military authorities all over the world as the only satisfactory method of military rifle practice."

CANADA HELPLESS IF ATTACKED

Sir George Doughty Warns Britain That it is Time to Protect The Dominion

London.—Sir George Doughty, who was defeated in the Grimsby constituency at the last election, has been giving his views on imperial federation since his return from Canada. He says:

"I am keenly in favor of a federal parliament which may deal with all questions of imperial interest. Imperial defence is a question which is being much discussed in Canada. The more it is discussed by influential Canadians the more do they realize that the time has arrived when there should be an attempt at establishing a union of the British states. Canada is already a nation and if, through any misfortune or lack of appreciation on our part of her position, she should become separated from the mother state, there would be grave danger for both of us. National jealousy as well as national ambition would cast lingering eyes on that great province, British Columbia, and it would be impossible for Canada to withstand any nation, say Japan, seeking an opportunity of extending her area, or prevent the annexation by such power of that great Dominion. From the standpoint of security of their great national asset it is essential that behind the Canadian Government and its provinces there should be the silent, forceful power of the British navy and British prestige."

Y. W. C. A.'S RAPID GROWTH

Great Increase Reported in Every Department of the Work

Ottawa.—The seventh triennial convention of the Y. W. C. A. opened here recently with a large attendance of delegates from all parts of Canada. Mrs. Robert Kilgour presided at the opening sitting, and those in attendance included Her Excellency Countess Grey. Miss Little, B.A., general secretary, presented her report, which covered a period of three yars.

The work now stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and bands together over 11,000 young women. In this great chain of transcontinental associations new links have been formed since the convention of 1907, held in Montreal. At that time there were no associations between Winnipeg and Vancouver. Search was made in vain for accommodation by girls in the West.

The Dominion council began a system of organizing that overcame much of this difficulty, with the result that associations were formed in Brandon, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Edmonton. Winnipeg has been a most successful branch, and has increased threefold. Halifax and Quebec and Vancouver have enlarged their belongings, and Toronto has now four branches.

The number of branches has increased 45 per cent. and the membership 25 per cent, and the amount given to foreign work 80 per cent. Receipts totalled $31,312. There is a balance on hand of $1,492.

DECLARES LOYALTY OF CANADA

British Empire No Longer a Dream But an Acknowledged Fact

London.—Sir Henry Pellatt was the guest of the evening at the first dinner of the society of Knights Bachelor. He guaranteed 500 pounds sterling yearly to enable the society to acquire Clifford's Inn as a home. Sir Henry Pellatt, responding to the toast to his health, assured the gathering of the deep and abiding loyalty of the Canadian people. They were looking for opportunities of closer union, believing that Canada and Britain should co-operate in every way in peace, war, commerce and defence. He was glad to sav the Little England party was diminishing rapidly. The British empire was no longer a dream but the acknowledged platform of all British statesmen.

The Drummond Election

Montreal.—The latest returns from Drummond indicate the final majority for Mr. Gilbert will be between 180 and 200. The outlying polls have not materially changed the standing of the candidates.

FEDERATION OF EMPIRE

BROAD INSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION MAY BE HELD

Details of Local Government for Scotland, Wales and England Must be Worked Out—Ireland Proving a Stumbling Block—Growing Evidence that the Irish Home Rulers Will Favor a Compromise.

London.—It now may be announced on the best authority that the conference of the leaders of the government and the opposition to consider the question of the House of Lords will result in the holding of a broad institutional convention next year, which will deal with the whole subject of a federation of the empire.

This degree of understanding among the leaders has been reached during the last three weeks, whereas a month ago no agreement seemed possible. Its explanation is the remarkable growth in favor of federation among political men of all classes.

Ireland, of course, was the chief stumbling block. It was found that even the most radical members of the Government, including Winston Churchill and Lloyd-George, strongly opposed giving Ireland the degree of independence possessed by Canada and Australia. They were willing to concede her similar relations to the imperial government as Ohio has to Washington, or Ontario to the Dominion of Canada. The Unionist leader was ready to compromise on the Irish question on that basis.

The details of local government for Scotland, Wales and England must be worked out next year at the convention. Meantime the constitutional questions will be left in abeyance in parliament, and by mutual agreement between both parties Mr. Redmond will be deprived of all power to embarrass the government, the Unionists, if necessary, voting with the cabinet.

Mr. Redmond has vacillated so frequently since he has been in America that his real position is not understood here by anybody. But, according to a despatch from Albany, he demands Home Rule similar to that enjoyed by the independent colonies. Should he attempt to press this demand when parliament assembles he will meet the combined opposition of the Liberals and Unionists.

Mr. O'Connor, according to the latest despatches, favors the milder home rule enjoyed by the individual states of America. There is growing evidence that the masses of Irish Home Rulers will welcome such a dispensation.

BRANDON ASYLUM DESTROYED

Had Between Six and Seven Hundred Inmates and All Are Believed to Have Been Got Out Safely

Brandon, Man.—In the midst of the first snow storm of the season a fire broke out in the Brandon asylum for the insane, and totally destroyed it within three hours.

The authorities believe that all the patients are accounted for, they having been removed under guard to outbuildings and the surrounding country patrolled. But it may well be that wearing no distinctive dress, some of the patients may have slipped away in the darkness and falling snow.

Prompt measures were taken to remove the inmates to barns and outbuildings, where they were guarded, as many of the patients were violent.

The asylum authorities state that, as far as can be obtained, none of the inmates are missing or seriously injured.

The man building was erected in 1889, under the regime of Hon. Thos. Greenway, as a reformatory, but was later converted into an asylum, wings being added in 1903 and 1905.

The authorities state they do not know the cause of the fire, and rumor ascribes it varyingly to a guard smoking, to a patient who secured some matches, and to crossed wires of the lighting plant.

There were between six and seven hundred patients confined in the asylum, many of them from Alberta and Saskatchewan, as the new provinces, not having been able to provided suitable accommodation in their own provinces, have sent many of their lunatics to the Manitoba institution.

FAST STEAMERS FOR C. P. R.

Will Furnish Direct Service Between Nova Scotia and U. S. Atlantic Ports

Montreal.—It was officially announced that the Canadian Pacific Railway company has decided to build four new steamers for a fast direct steamship service between Nova Scotia ports and Boston and New York. These vessels will be larger, faster and stronger than any at present engaged in the North Atlantic coast steamship traffic.

This is one of the important developments that will follow the absorption of the Dominion Atlantic into the system in the spring.

The new vessels will be of the type of ocean liners, about four hundred and fifty feet in length, with a carrying capacity of five thousand tons and able to make over twenty knots an hour.

Veterans to Meet in Winnipeg Nov. 25

Winnipeg.—At a meeting of the executive of the imperial veterans' brigade of western Canada it was resolved that a convention should be held in Winnipeg, Nov. 25. All organized companies are entitled to send a delegate for each 30 men on the roll, but at least two-thirds of the strength must be present to elect the delegate. If no delegate is available, a proxy may be substituted and mailed at the earliest possible moment to the hon. secretary at Winnipeg.

SPAIN GIVES IN TO THE POPE

Alfonso Writes a Personal Letter Telling of the Change in Policy

Rome.—The Pope has received an autograph letter from King Alfonso, of Spain, announcing that his personal efforts to avert a diplomatic rupture between Spain and the Vatican have been crowned with success.

"Premier Canalejas," he wrote "has consented not to apply the law to which the Holy See objected until the negotiations for the amendment of the concordat have been concluded and the question relating to the religious congregations have been fully settled."

The King further expressed the hope that the negotiations will be resumed shortly and announces that with this object in view the Spanish ambassador will return to Rome before Christmas.

The Pope is reported to have been highly gratified at the receipt of the letter and to have tendered his thanks and blessings. He also notified the King that he is willing to smooth over the difficulties and make concessions provided he received assurance that Premier Canalejas is willing to cooperate in finding a solution of mutual advantage to the Vatican and to Spain. The prevailing impression at the Vatican is that a settlement of the controversy is now practically certain.

The new company is capitalized at $500,000, and will have its head affice in Calgary. In addition to the branch offices and yards of the Riverside company, the yards of the South Alberta Lumber company at Lethbridge, New Dayton, Magrath and Diamond City, the new company has acquired control of the valuable timber limits of the Michel Sawmill company of New Michel in B. C.

The officers of the new company are: H. N. Sereth, president; A. Sereth, general manager, and E. Macleod, secretary-treasurer.

EDMONTON STOOD PAT

Northern City Would Not Agree to Fair Date Schedule—No Action Taken

Edmonton.—The conference of delegates of central western exhibitions held in Edmonton to arrange for fair dates for a western circuit, resulted in nothing, because Edmonton refused to take any action at all unless Edmonton was assured of holding its fair on Dominion day for all time, if it wanted a fair on Dominion day. Calgary delegates declined to any such proposition, and as Edmonton would make no compromise, the meeting adjourned without any action being taken.

The following were present: Messrs. Wilson, Willoughby and Douglas, of Saskatoon; Kernahan and Smith, of Prince Alberta; McGeorge, Campbell, Stewart and West, of Edmonton; Sheriff Van Wart, E. L. Richardson, and W. M. Davidson, of Calgary.

Kelowna Wins Big Apple Prize

Vancouver, B.C.—The premier prize of the first Canadian national apple show, of $1,000, has been awarded to Kelowna, B. C., its car of Jonathans being pronounced by each of the judges to be the finest car of apples ever shown at any exhibition.

The apples were practically perfect, for out of a possible one thousand marks the judges awarded nine hundred and seventy marks.

"The best I have ever seen," declared one judge, Prof. H. E. Deman, of Washington, D.C.

FAVOR UNION OF THE EMPIRE

States from Different Parts of the Empire Unite in Loyal Expressions

Capetown.—At a government banquet, Dr. Jamieson said if the solution suggested for the impasse with Great Britain is successful, they might anticipate the first step towards the union of the empire. He eulogized Hon. Mr. Lemieux's settlement of the Asiatic difficulty in Canada.

The Australian premier, Mr. Fisher, said nothing had occurred in the world's history in recent times which would have greater effect than the union of South Africa. They now had five nations willing to co-operate in common affairs, united by unseen bonds to see justice done to all people.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux aroused enthusiasm by his eloquent speech. England, he said, great and generous, knowing a brave foe, makes staunch friends by granting equality, freedom and self-government to the two races. Canada has been welded into one by good will and mutual forbearance. Obstacles can be as successfully overcome in South Africa which is bound to play a brilliant part in the history of the greatest empire the world has ever seen.

What is contemplated at the colonial office, he said, is a permanent secretariate for the Dominions, whose official spokesman in the house of commons will be the premier. This expansion will, however, not occur for some time.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM EXTENSION

Practically Every Town in Alberta Has Long Distance Connection

Edmonton.—Business men in Wainwright are now in a position to speak with business men in Medicine Hat over the government long distance lines.

By completion of the summer's programme of work by the government telephone department, the government lines which connect these two extreme points in the province have been extended and the connection is now complete.

The circuit is made from Wainwright to Medicine Hat via Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge. Furthermore, on the completion of the department's programme practically every town and city on a line of railway in the province, save the lines west of Edmonton, have long distance connection.

Extensions have been completed to the Wetaskiwin branch of the C. P. R. and the Stettler branch of the C. P. R. almost to the eastern boundary of the province.

NEW WATERWAY NOW OPEN

Dredging Operations, Extending Over Three Years, Have Been Completed

Edmonton.—Dredging operations on the Lesser Slave River, which has been going on for some three summers, are now completed, and as a result the Northern Transportation Company boats can now run from Athabasca Landing to the head of Lesser Slave Lake.

A channel three feet in depth has been dredged up the entire distance of the river and all rocks and obstacles, which previously made the passage of a large craft up and down the stream practically impossible, have been removed. Wing dams have also been built at intervals along the river, in ordere to divert the current into the artificial channel.

The work was completed on the 23rd of October and the seven men who were employed on the dredge reached the city a few days ago.

HE BLEW UP THE MAINE

Spaniard Named Zabaldo Said by Army Officer to Have Caused Explosion

Kansas City, -- The Maine was anchored over a submarine mine," he said. "A fanatic Spaniard simply turned on the switch and caused the explosion. Jose Zavaldo, a Spanish electrician, working in Monro castle, was responsible for the destruction of the batleship Maine," was the statement made recently by Colonel J. E. Brady.

Colonel Brady says he was one of the committee of four who investigated the explosion, and reported to President McKinley.

"Three other army officers, whose names I do not care to give, and myself, reported to the president that in our belief Zavaldo was responsible. He was later executed upon the command of General Blanco. No one, however, was ever able to learn for what reason."

THE QUEBEC BRIDGE CONTRACT

The Competition is Now Between the American and the British Companies

Quebec.—It is reported here that the Quebec bridge commission has reached a definite decision regarding the awarding of the contract for the new bridge, and that the placing of the contract is now only a matter of a few days, the contest narrowing down to competition between the American steel companies, supported by the United States Steel corporation, and the Canadian company, which has recently been incorporated by the British builders.

If the contract is awarded to the latter company, it is expected to bring a large amount of new British capital to Quebec.

Treaty Would Be Dangerous

London.—The Standard says "Let us be perfectly frank. Commercial arrangements between Canada and the United States must and can only be the thin end of the wedge of political union. Negotiations at Ottawa represent a most momentous crisis which the empire has experienced since the Boer war. Surely Canadian statesmen and Canadian people can think out some other means of meeting the situation, than commercial negotiation with Washington, which will not only endanger her political economy but are a grave menace to the existence of the empire.

TO CONSERVE WATER POWER

ASK PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT TO APPOINT COMMISSION

Red Deer Council Makes First Move to Endorse Plan for Establishment of a Hydro-Electro System by the Provincial Government—Other Alberta Municipalities are Expected to Fall in Line.

Edmonton.—Red Deer is the first municipality to fall in line in connection with the Provincial hydro-electric scheme. The city commissioners here received a copy of a resolution passed at a recent meeting of the town council at Red Deer, which is in effect the same as that passed by the local council recently.

The resolution is as follows

"Whereas, as it is deemed that conservation of the water power of the streams of the province and development of the same by the government for the benefit of the people as a whole, is a matter of vital importance to our future development;

"Be it resolved, that this council request the government of the province to appoint a commission to investigate the water power resources of Alberta with a view to the establishment of a hydro-electric system by the province; and,

"Be it further resolved, that the council petition the executive council of the union of Alberta municipalities to urge this matter upon the government in the interests of the various municipalities therein.

It is understood that several other municipalities have the matter under consideration and resolutions of the same nature are expected to be passed by each of them, with the idea of co-operation in bringing the question before the government, urging upon them the necessity of conserving the natural resources of the province for the public, and preventing them from falling into the hands of private capitalists.

TARIFF NEGOTIATORS MEET.

First Meeting of the Tariff Conference —Both Sides Will Make Proposals

Ottawa.—Canadian and American representatives on the tariff negotiations met for the first time in conference on Saturday, but subsequent to the meeting did not have much to say as to what was accomplished.

Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Wm. Paterson represented Canada at the preliminary conference which was held in the office of the Minister of Finance while the United States was represented by Henry M. Hoyt, Chas. M. Pepper and Hon. J. G. Foster, American Consul General.

One of the Canadian negotiators when approached after the conference broke up said: "I am not at liberty to say anything at present.

Asked as to how long the negotiations were liable to continue he said: "I cannot say. It will depend on how we get along."

The expectation here is that the negotiations will continue till the latter part of he week, when an adjournment will be necessary owing to the approach of the date for the opening of parliament.

In the work of putting the finishing touches on the parliamentary programme, the government will probably require a few days of the undivided labors of the Canadian negotiators.

In the course of the next few days, it is anticipated that the preliminary ground will have been pretty well covered and tentative proposals submitted. Then an adjournment will be taken in order to give both sides time to figure down to a definite basis the probable effect of the proposals made. This will take some time, but it is expected that the commissioners will get together again in the course of a few weeks, if it is felt that any definite headway is likely to be made.

In the latter stage of the negotiations Secretary Knox, of the United States, will participate, while Sir Wilfrid Laurier will give the weight of his decision to the Canadian negotiators before the finishing touches are put to any agreement.

REPORTED INVASION OF PERSIA

Place Where Affair Took Place Was Hundreds of Miles From the Persian Frontier

London.—A despatch received here from Teheran said that a British invasion of Persia had begun recently at Lingah, on the Gulf of Persia, and that it was stated that the commander and officers of the British cruiser Proserpine, had been wounded in a pitched battle. It turns out, however, that the affair had nothing whatever to do with Persia.

Sixty men who landed from the cruiser near Chapbar in Beluchistan had a brush with the Afghan gun runners, in which the captain of the Proserpine and another officer from the vessel were slightly wounded. Chapbar is 360 miles distant from Lingah and is in another country.

HONORS FOR PEARY

Bill Pending to Make Him Rear Admiral in Recognition of Polar Work

Washington.—Captain R. E. Peary will return to duty on Nov. 9 as engineer expert for the department of justice in cases involving construction work for the naval bureau or yards and docks. This work was the explorer's choice among several places offered him. He would have preferred, it is said, to have been assigned to duty at the naval library to write of his travels in the frozen north. The explorer has been on leave of absence about ten years. A bill is pending to make him a rear-admiral as a mark of recognition for his Polar exploits.

New Colonial Secretary

London.—It is now reported that the Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt, first commissioner of works, son of the late Sir William Harcourt, will succeed the Earl of Crew as secretary for the colonies, and that Crew will succeed Lord Morley in his Indian office.

FRIDAY. NOVEMBER 18. 1910.

THE BAND PROMOTERS have accomplished a great deal since the initial step was taken. They have solicited the business men and others, who have contributed liberally and they have sent a deputation to the city council, from which they have received a donation of $100. A meeting should now be held of all parties interested to organize and elect officers, and then the instruments required can be ascertained and somebody appointed to buy them.

A BAD IMPRESSION was created last Monday night in Prince's Hall when the Jubilee Singers rendered the national anthem, God Save the Queen. A few persons in the audience, presumably strangers in town, donned their hats and rushed for the door instead of remaining at their places standing and uncovered. We regret such an occurrence before an American troupe as it takes only a few such thoughtless people to give a bad impression to the whole community.

THAT A STOCKYARD is urgently required in our town was keenly evidenced last Tuesday when Mr. Lane of the Bar U ranch drove 700 head of cattle here for shipment, finding no stockyard he was compelled to take them to Brooks. Mr. Lane's experience of last Tuesday is only a repetition of what others had to contend with very often. It is a serious matter and one which demands immediate adjustment. The proper authorities should petition the C. P. R. and insist upon having a stock yard built with as little delay as possible.

THE WATERWAYS REPORT

THE REPORT of the Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the Alberta & Great Waterway & Railway transaction was laid on the table of the legislature at the opening on Thursday of last week and has since been printed. There are, in fact, two reports, one made by judges Scott and Harvey, and the other by Judge Beck. In the end both came to the same thing—the late provincial government is cleared of the imputations of dishonesty cast upon it at the session of the legislature in March last. The reason for the minority report is that Judge Beck wishes to emphasize his belief in the complete innocence of the ministers in such a way that there shall be no misunderstanding about it. This, the other report readily does.

It is a good thing that Judge Beck had a sufficiently independent mind to give separate expression to his opinion, for it shows the layman how even trained legal interpreters may differ in the way they view a matter.

The contract with the A. & G. was no doubt open to criticism at certain points but the people of the province generally will be pleased that the members of Alberta's first government have been cleared by a commission of three of her foremost judges of the sinster imputations of graft.

A professional wresling match will take place on Saturday, November 26th, in Prince's Hall, between J.W. Winkler and Ben McMullen of Oregon. Both contestants are confident as to the result.

BANK OF COMMERCE RECEPTION

Undoubtedly the largest reception that ever took place in Bassano was the formal opening of the Bank of Commerce on Friday, the fourth of November. Although invitations were issued a general invitation to all the citizens of Bassano and district was tendered through the colums of the News. The public responded and Mr. Strange, the bank manager and his staff had their hands full from seven until eleven p. m. Bassano's splendid orchestra was in attendance. As the sweet music was floating through the air the bank officials were busy showing their guests around the sumptuous apartments of the bank building.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Church of England, represented by Mrs. Strange and Mrs. Pierce and assisted by Misses Syers and Wyatt served tea during the evening.

The handsome and roomy building of the Canadian Bank of Commerce was completed and ready for occupancy on July 15th. It is of Carmon design, planned by Darling & Pearson, architects of Toronto. who made all of the plans for the Canadian Bank of Commerce buildings. It is of the Colonial style of architecture and presents a handsome and massive appearance.

It has three stories and a basement with a brick vault in the rear, and occupies 30 by 40 feet of space, while the height from the level of the street is 45 feet.

The front is ornmented with four large Corinthian pillars, placed equi-distance from each other. The front entrance is capped with a broken arch with the Canadian Bank of Commerce crest in the centre.

The cornices, columns, base and large front steps are made in imitation of stone. The body of the building is painted a green color, with window trimmings of brown. The main entrance doors are of solid oak with glass panels, ornamented with iron grills. The windows down stairs are of plate glass, 46 by 58 inches in size, while upstairs they are of double diamond glass, 24 by 50 inches. The front entrance steps are 15 feet wide and begin at the sidewalk, while the building stands back of the front line of the lot on which it is located, for several feet.

The ground floor has a public banking room, manager's room, vault, vestibule and main staircase hall, the banking room is spacious, 30 by 50 feet. Its desks and counters are of quarter oak with plain metal trimmings.

The manager's room is in front of the banking room, on the west side of the entrance it is fifteen feet square and is furnished in the same style as the banking room. The vault is 15 by 12 feet and has a burglar proof, steel door and a manganese safe.

The second floor has a large sitting room, three bedrooms and a toilet room. The sitting room is 14 by 20 and has a cheerful fire place built of polished oak and brick. A rich brussells carpet in red covers the hardwood floor and the furniture which comprises, reclining chairs, fauteuils, settees, etc. are of the mission style. The bedrooms also are carpeted and have mission style furniture. The lavatory is complete with hot and cold water, porcelaine bath, etc. Most of the furniture was purchased in Bassano with the exception of a few articles that had to be procured in Toronto. The entire building is lit by the latest model of the Standard Gilette Lighting Co.

THE LAST BASSANOITE

A sweet chubby little girl has come into Tom Hunter's life and all friends and acquaintances are forgotten. For the next six months there will be no use looking for Tom at his old haunts as his whole time will be taken up crooning cradle songs for the new member of the family. Mrs. Hunter and the child are both doing well. Many congratulations to Daddy and best wishes to the little darling.

MASKED BALL A BIG SUCCESS

The largest and merriest gathering of dancers ever beheld in Bassano was witnessed last Friday night in Prince's Hall. The ball was suitably decorated and the costumes reflected every color and shade immaginable. Being detained by business I arrived rather late and as I entered the hall the merry throng was in full swing. The first thing that struck my gaze was a big Indian Kidnapping a sweet little creature in white. then followed a big militaire with a negro wench in his charge, I then raised my gaze and took in the whole assemblage, and behold! Nothing but tramps, cowboys, negroes, clowns and sailors playing the galant with queens or at least princesses, if I were to judge by appearances.

The music was supplied by the Watkins orchestra and it was simply perfect. A copious supper was prepared for the occasion at the Bassano Restaurant and the City Lunch Counter and they both excelled in supplying the inner wants of man.

MOON WORE A VEIL

Total Eclipse Occurred Wednesday Night, the Latter Part of Which Was Visible Here.

When the moon at the full appeared in view above the eastern horizon shortly before six o'clock Wednesday night, it wore a mask which concealed almost the whole of its familiar face.

Gradually as it rose higher in the sky the veil disappeared, and about 7 o'clock it was shining as sweetly as though nothing had happened.

There was not a cloud in the sky, and the phenomenon was watched by a large number of people in the town.

The moon was in shadow for several hours, but only the latter part of its eclipse was visible in the Western part of America. This was the last of a series of four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon, which were announced for this year, and was an interesting exhibition well worth observing under the circumstances. Atmospheric conditions were such that it could be seen as well by the naked eye as through a glass.

TWO RUNAWAYS'

What promised to be a disastrous run away took place a week ago. Young Merritt Palmer was preparing to go out on his delivery rig and as he mounted, the horses started before he had time to seize the reins. The brave young lad stuck to his post and finally got the lines but the horses were dashing away at a terrific speed to the north. They travelled three miles before the boy managed to control them. On his return, he was met by Tom Eller and Stewart Champ, who were in hot pursuit after the spirited horses. The next day the same outfit, minus the driver, started from A. F. Harris' residence, went through a lumber yard, then north towards Caldwell's ranch and ran into a barb wire fence. Herb Howe and Pat Burdict caught the horses and drove them back to the Boss Livery Barn. No damage was done and the horses were only slightly scratched.

LOU OWEN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Outcome of an Entanglement With One of Bassano's Fairest Young Ladies—Trial To Take Place Tuesday Nov. 22.

It is very unfortunate that Bassano should be the mecca of any serious scandal and that such an estimable and apparently well-behaved young man as Lou Owen should be the guilty party is very inconceivable as well as deplorable.

It appears that the complainant, Miss Molly Pickleface, contends that Lou has reached the proper age to marry and is quite capable of supporting a wife, and that he deliberately and maliciously refuses to marry her.

The trial will take place on Tuesday, November 22, in the Presbyterian Church. The proceedings of the trial will be as follows:

TRIAL BY JURY

Defendent Complainant
Tommy Louder Molly Pickleface

It is hereby charged that Tommy Louder, gentleman, being single, of proper age and capable of supporting a wife, did on the 1st day of November 1910, deliberately and maliciously refused an offer of marriage from Molly Pickleface, such being under Section 23 of the statutes of limitations of the right of man to marry, a criminal offence.

COURT ORDERLY

Court Stenographer Miss May Murchison.

The formation of a litterary society in Bassano was the object of an assembly at Rev. Mr. McAskile's residence, held on Monday, November 7th. Mr. McAskile held the chair.

After much preliminary discussion it was decided to organize a litterary society and the formal opening will take place in the Presbyterian Church, on Tuesday, night, November 22th, when the above mock trial will be staged.

After the entertainment a meeting will be called to elect officers and enroll new members. Mr. R. C. Pegler was appointed chairman pro tem.

The organizers deserve great credit for starting a society of this kind in our town. There is no traveling company can give the same genuine and wholesome enjoyment that a litterary club can, but the society will need have funds and for that purpose a collection will be taken during the evening.

JUBILEE SINGERS

That Bassano is becoming a good show town was clearly evidenced last Monday night by the crowd that greeted the Dixie Concert Company, in spite of the rumor that had been circulated since two days before their arrival that they would not appear in Bassano. Their singing was excellent, and their reproduction of the old plantation melodies reminded one of the old original Fiske Jubilee Singers of a decade ago.

The best number on the programme was that English ballad "Roll on Thou Deep and Dark Blue Ocean" rendered by N. C. Buckner. Mr. Buckner has a rich, deep, powerful voice with a large range, and his rendition of the bass solo was perfect. His voice resembles very much that of Paul Plancon the great french basso, who sang at the Metropolitan Theatre, New York, a couple of seasons. Miss Neale Buckner has a very sweet soprano voice and proved herself an accomplished operatic singer, and her melodies were divine. She greatly pleased the audience by her rendition of Swanee River, Magnetic Waltz and Coming Through the Rye.

Miss Gertrude Palmer is a masterful manipulator on the violin. She handles her instrument with undoubted skill and her tecnique is perfect. Robert L. Moore is the comedian of the company and he succeeded to disturb the other members of the company throughout the entire performanse to the great amusement of the audience. The balance of the company is good and made a perfect ensemble. Among the chorus numbers the following deserve special praise. Quonium Tu Solus, Sextette from Lucia, and the opening chorus Up, Up and Away.

4TH RESTAURANT IN TOWN

The Bassano Restaurant and Rooming house is the name of the latest product in the restaurant line in Bassano. Mr. F. E. McDonald will have charge of the rooms and Mr. McNally the catering department. They have leased the property adjoining the bakery and have fitted the two buildings all through with new furniture. The dining room has been enlarged and now measures 16 x 24 feet, and will be in charge of Miss Artie Harris. The kitchen has been fitted with a new range and other commodities and will have a first class lady cook to administer to the wants of man. The bedrooms are all furnished with new furniture and will have a stove in each one.

THE LATEST GAS STORY

We have heard many gas stories since the gas has been discovered in Bassano, but the most ridiculous one since the discovery is to be found in the Calgary News of Thursday, November 10th. They claim that the gas has been drilled by an eastern company of capitalists for the purpose of piping it to Calgary. They go on to say that the one well has cost $2,145,000 to bore. As it would take about twelve such wells to supply a city like Calgary, how long will it take them to get that number and what will they cost?

For the special amusement of the Bassano News readers we publish this pipe dream of the Calgary News correspondent:

"BASSANO NATURAL GAS WILL BE PIPED INTO CALGARY SOON"

"Eastern Capitalists Propose Spending $2,145,000 To Carry Out The Scheme."

"Within the next twelve months Calgary people may be lighting their stores, business houses and residences with natural gas, and using it in large quantities for power purposes.

"It won't be Calgary natural gas, but the next thing to it, and just as good. The gas is to be piped from wells at Bassano, which have cost eastern capitalists no less than $2,145,000 to bore. Although the work has been done quietly and without very much publicity, it has been going on for the past two years, and a permanent flow of gas has been struck in abundant quantities. This has been known for some time but the fact that it is to be piped into Calgary is indeed good news for the city.

The manager for the company interested in the Bassano wells has been negotiating with the directors of the Calgary Natural Gas company for the past few days with the object of consummating an agreement whereby the latter concern would arrange to permit the company interested in the Bassano wells to pipe the product into the city. These negotiations were commenced, it being understood that the Calgary company had an exclusive franchise of the city for a number of years. The tentative agreement was that if the latter company would permit the gas to be piped into Calgary and supplied to consumers the Calgary Natural Gas company were to receive 30 per cent, of the revenue and the other company 70 per cent.

"This proposed agreement, however, has fallen through, it is said because of a discovery that the Calgary company does not hold an exclusive franchise, it having invalidated its franchise by nonfulfillment of certain conditions.

"Whether this is or is not the case, the negotiations have fallen through, and the eastern company has decided to go ahead with the work of laying the pipes to the city limits, and taking a chance of getting the franchise to supply gas in Calgary when it has the product here."

BASSANO FOUR YEARS AGO

Archibald McLean came to town in the early part of the week to buy rams from his brother, P. McLean. Mr. McLean has a sheep ranch north of Strathmore since a number of years. He was greatly surprised at the growth of Bassano. He was here four years ago and at that time there were only two houses and a stable. Mr. Struthers kept the only store and had the post office, now, it is just as large and presents as good an appearance as does Strathmore. Mr. McLean returned to Strathmore last Tuesday.

DOINGS AT HUTTON

Hutton is becoming a very busy place. The school district has been authorized to issue debentures for the construction of a school house at a cost of $4,000. It will be a two story frame building, 20 x 40 feet, and contain three class rooms. The building operations will begin immediately and it is expected that it will be ready for occupancy about the fifteenth of January.

Miss Gladys Gerding, the 15-year old daughter of Ben Gerding, died at her father's residence last week. This is the second girl the bereaved parents loose within three weeks.

The Church of England has procured a site of five lots and purpose building a church in the near future.

The Roman Catholics of the district are seeking a suitable site for the building of a church.

Dr. W. D. Buyers has gone to Calgary to buy a complete stock of drugs and toilet requisites to stock his drug store the building for which he will build immediately upon his return.

"Oh, yes!" Wiltshire replied dryly. "A little knowledge of human nature makes the thing clear enough."

"That's it. You've got that knowledge, and so I thought that you might help me."

"Oh!"

Wiltshire withdrew his cigar from his lips and looked round with some astonishment.

"I mean," Trafford explained, half apologetically, "that if in any particular instance you had the chance to facilitate the thing"—

"Of course, of course. Were you thinking of any one especially?"

"No—no—that is—I know you've befriended the family of that—that young Winship—who—who—painted a portrait"—

"Quite so. We were speaking of him at lunch this morning, if you remember."

"You may not be aware that his father was an old opponent of mine."

"I know the circumstances vaguely."

"Then I won't go into them further than to say he was the kind of old fellow you couldn't spare. I did my best to save him and his family from ruin, but when they were bent on running into it I had to let them. That's all over years ago. Now he has this son and an old maid daughter. Don't you understand, Wiltshire, that with more money than I know what to do with—with money of which I could take three-fourths and bury it in a hole in the ground and still remain a rich man—don't you understand that I should be glad"—

He stopped as if searching for a word.

"I quite understand," Wiltshire hastened to say. "But isn't it the case that Winship is getting beyond the need of generosity of that sort?"

"No one is beyond the need of what he can get. And whether he's so or not I want the fellow to have the money. I want to know that he's taken it. What he does with it afterward or what his sister does with it won't matter a twopenny hang as far as I'm concerned, but I want to know that they've had it. I'd leave it on his doorstep, I'd stuff it down his throat, just for the satisfaction of getting rid of it."

He laughed grimly and threw the stump of his cigar on the ash tray.

"Why don't you tell him so?"

"I've done so," Trafford answered after a moment's hesitation. "He wouldn't take it."

"Then what would you expect me to do?"

"Do? Do anything, so long as they take the money. I don't care a jot about their knowing it's from me. I'll give you a million dollars—£200,000—to juggle into their pockets by any tale you can invent. Gad, when I think how easy it's been to make money it seems like the irony of the very Lord above to find it so difficult to throw it away!"

There were several pertinent remarks in Wiltshire's mind, but he withheld them. As a matter of fact, he was slightly appalled by the lifting of this corner of the veil on the rich man's conscience. From the beginning of their acquaintance he had been interested in Trafford as the type of American success, while he had been drawn to him by a certain bigness and generosity in Trafford's character, but he shrank from contact with the details of his business career with the distaste of the hereditary grand seignior. It was a relief to him when Trafford rose and, assuming another voice, affected to take the matter lightly. He himself tried to do the same.

"Winship is as pigheaded a chap as was ever driven to market," he said as they went toward the drawing room, "but I know him pretty well, and if it's any service to you I'll try to influence him for his good."

CHAPTER XIX.

THE appearance in the New York Magazine of the famous series of articles in which the history and methods of the Vermont Mining company were exposed had a clarifying effect on Paula's chaotic thought. Till then she had not been without the persistent hope that some way of reconciliation might be found between Winship and her father. "Roger loves me," she argued to herself in the first days of the separation. "He'll come back and take the money for my sake." But when she had read to a close the first of the articles that fell under her notice she had none of that hope left. "He'll not take it," she said to herself then. "No man who knew this could."

That was in July. She had picked up the current number of the New York Magazine quite casually at a news stand, not suspecting that it could contain anything of special interest to herself. She learned from it that the articles had been appearing since the previous March and ordered all the numbers to be sent to her.

The first installment dealt, among other things, with the origin of the Trafford family and contained many details of which Paula herself had little knowledge. It informed her that in the early eighteen hundreds William Trafford had been a laborer at Cannock Chase, in Staffordshire. He married a girl named Sarah Paul, by whom he had a large family, several of their descendants being miners at Cannock Chase today. John Trafford, their second son, emigrated to America about the year 1833. He settled as a farmer near Cumberland, Vt., where he married Jennie O'Mara, a pretty Irish girl, servant in the house of Julius Murray, a coal merchant in the neighboring town.

John and Jennie Trafford were thrifty, industrious people, with that instinct to rise in the world which distinguished the earlier emigrants from the British isles. Unable themselves to read or write, they were eager to give their children the best educational advantages the neighborhood afforded. These were exhausted apparently when Andrew was fourteen and Paul was twelve. Then both lads went to work, Andrew remaining with his father on the farm, while Paul found employment as office boy with Julius Murray in the town.

From that point the biography dealt chiefly with the younger of the two. It recounted in detail Paul's first bit of business inspiration, in which the boy showed himself as father to the man. A letter from Peter O'Mara, his mother's brother, who worked in the Dundee mines in Pennsylvania, had hinted at one of those early difficulties between miner and employer which were afterward organized into strikes. Julius Murray told during all the rest of his life how Paul had rushed into his office breathless with the news. He was fond of describing the lad as he stood there, straight and erect, in all the dignity of his thirteen years, his hands behind his back and his blue eyes flashing. "Wouldn't it be well, Mr. Murray, to buy up all the Dundee coal you can get between today and tomorrow? By the day after that everybody else will know the news as well as we." Julius Murray, unaccustomed to wisdom from the mouth of babes and sucklings, laughed at the boy's ardor and poohpoohed his advice. When he awoke next day to the fact that he was letting a great opportunity slip by he had only twenty-four hours in which to do the work of forty-eight. The money he made when, in the following winter, Dundee coal went up to the price, unheard of in those days, of $11 a ton was that which gave Miss Julia Murray the claim to be considered an heiress when she eloped with Paul Trafford in 1870.

"Do anything, so long as they take the money."

In subsequent numbers Paula read the history of the Trafford rise step by step, scheme by scheme, million by million, lawsuit by lawsuit, fight by fight—a great, sordid epic of finance in which reputations were ruined, homes wrecked, lives blasted and a whole country's commercial, legal, political and moral honor brought painfully into question.

Paula read with no more than a vague comprehension. There were so many questions involved—legal, legislative, geological and economical—that her simple intelligence reeled in the effort to understand.

Where there were dramatic personal events she grasped the subject more fully. She could follow the story of the ruin of the Winships from beginning to end. She could do the same with those of the Marshalls of Turtonville, of the Brewers of Albany and of poor Jackson of Ohio. But whether details were clear to her or not one great fact surged up out of this weltering mass of testimony—that the father she adored had fought his way to success by means which made her shudder. Nothing she had guessed at, nothing she had feared, could equal this heaping up of testimony from every corner of the land. Nothing she had ever imagined of Russian tyranny or Turkish misrule could be more merciless than the despotism with which her father and his associates in a country considered free had been able to club and crush and gag and grind into helplessness whatever lifted itself against them. And he was her father! She was his child! She was bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh! She could no more dissociate herself from him and his work than she could from the line of laborers and servants from whom she sprang. However confused she might be about facts, she had no doubt as to her duty here. It was to stand by the man who depended upon her, to stand by him all the more now when in his old age the storm of popular wrath was gathering and breaking about him.

All through July, August and September she had been reading these articles secretly. That her father was reading them, too, she knew from seeing in New York papers an occasional statement from his legal representatives in which this or that accusation was denied. How deeply he resented this history of himself she could see from his increased depression as each new number of the series appeared. Now, on one of the last days of September, the October issue was in her hands.

She had just finished reading it in her favorite corner of the English garden. It had been especially pitiless to her father in the piling up of charges against him. She closed the volume and with hands clasped upon it gazed vaguely across the lawn, indifferent to its sunlit spaces as well as to the masses of dahlia and canna gorgeous with autumn bloom.

"No, no," she kept saying to herself; "Roger couldn't take that money. It's blood money. And I must keep it. There's no way by which I could give it up. If I did it would kill papa. I must go on all my life clothed in the ruin of beggared men and of hungry women and children. Roger said that, and it's quite true. My pearls are their tears, and my rubies are their sweat of blood. And yet I must wear them for papa's sake, whatever the world may think, whatever Roger himself may believe of me. Oh, Roger! Oh, my love! How can I go on all through the years without you? O God, help me!" she prayed, with a sudden lifting of her eyes. "O God, help me! I'm so weak. I'm so tired. I've so little strength left to keep the struggle up."

Her breath came in hard gasps; the tears blinded her. She had just time to control herself and dash her hand across her eyes as she saw Wiltshire coming toward her through the trees.

She was not surprised. She knew he would be looking for her somewhere in the grounds. During the week after their first meeting he had come every second day to the Pavilion de la Reine. During the week after that his visits had been daily. In the third week Trafford had invited him to move out to Versailles and become their guest.

To this arrangement Paula had given the welcome of her acquiescence. Though she was aware of what her father meant, she was sensible, too, of the relief which Wiltshire's presence brought into the tension of their daily life. Whenever he was with them there was a return to something like the old time happiness. Her father seemed to grow younger in his society, and she herself drew comfort from the knowledge that this good man's support was near. She could not bear to check his gentle, tentative advances; still less could she bear to give back cold refusal to the silent pleading in her father's eyes.

Shooting the Chute.

Councillor Shute had an experience last Thursday which he would not care to have repeated, and from which he was lucky to escape with his life. He was en route to Flesherton, and having a wayside chat with Mr. Embury, about two miles south of Markdale, and left his horse standing by the roadside. An automobile from Shelburne hove in sight over the brow of the hill, and his horse became frightened. Mr. Shute rushed to its side and grabbed the bridle, turning the horse into Mr. Embury's gate, which was open. The horse meanwhile was careering wildly, and crowded its owner into a wire fence, bruising his arm and leg badly and inflicting other injuries. The automobile flew past at lightning speed and paused not to see what the result of its wild flight had been. The horse was finally brought to a standstill, uninjured, the buggy shaft was broken and other damage caused, and Mr. Shute is still nursing a number of bruises on his body from his close contact with the fence.—Owen Sound Advertiser.

Angling for Barley.

It is not an unusual occurrence in this vicinity to see people fishing for fish but the past week one of our farmers was seen fishing for barley, not with a rod and line but with an old-time crade. Of course, we must blame Monday's heavy rains for this. On several occasions farmers were seen drawing in grain with two teams hitched to the wagon and the wheels well nigh to the axle in mud. Now harvesting is past and again resounding from place to place we hear the whistle of the threshing engine.—Cedarville cor. Mount Forest Representative.

Good-Bye, Doggie.

Frank Nicholl was bitten by a dog last week. There are a number of vicious curs running loose and unmuzzled. I thought we had an inspector appointed for that work? The council had better wake up or there will be trouble. Cross dogs are running free from Adelaide village to the townline. Farmers have taken the law in their own hands, and will shoot every dog that runs at large, so if your dog does not come home just say "goodbye, doggie" and make no fuss.—Strathroy Age.

A Terrible Infliction.

In Bulgaria a newly married woman is expected to keep her mouth closed for speaking purposes for a whole month after her marriage unless specially addressed by her husband. When the month has elapsed the husband presents her with a gift, after which she is at liberty to chatter as much as she likes.

Soap.

Investigators say that soap has more or less value as a disinfectant.

Onion Juice.

The best way to extract the juice from an onion, when needed for flavoring, is to cut a slice from the root end of the onion, remove the outer skin and press onion on a coarse grate, using a rotary motion.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON VII.—FOURTH QUARTER, FOR NOV. 13, 1910.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxiv, 32-51. Memory Verse, 44—Golden Text, Matt. xxvi, 41—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The greater part of this great discourse is recorded by both Mark and Luke as well as by Matthew. As they left the temple one day His disciples called His attention to the great buildings with the goodly stones and gifts, and they were evidently greatly surprised by His remark that all would be thrown down and not one stone left upon another. Four of them came to Him privately as He sat upon the Mount of Olives and asked Him a question which was really threefold, though they probably thought it one. The destruction of the temple. His coming again and the end of the age were two, if not three, distinct events. In His discourse he covered the reply to all. The whole age until He shall come again will be characterized by wars, famines, pestilences and earthquakes, with increasing wickedness until it shall be as it was in the days of Noah.

In Luke xxi, 24, He very plainly referred to the approaching destruction of Jerusalem and covered this present age by the words, "Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the gentiles until the times of the gentiles be fulfilled." With this verse we should associate Rom. xi, 25, 26. Many of the circumstances connected with the destruction of Jerusalem were foreshadowings of these at the end of the age, and the warnings are therefore similar.

Verses 27-31 of our lesson chapter speak plainly of His coming in power and glory immediately after the great tribulation at the end of this age. The destruction of Jerusalem was in no sense His coming, for it is written in Psalm cii, 16, that when He shall appear in His glory He will build up Zion, not destroy it. He is coming again to restore all things of which the prophets have spoken (Acts iii, 21).

The events in the east today are most startling if considered in the light of verses 32-35 of our lesson and compel us to believe that the kingdom of God is again at hand after the long interval of its postponement during this age. The zeal and aim of Zionism, the new regime in Turkey, her favor to the Jews, a large part of the land given to Abraham (Mesopotamia) being now offered to them, and the unrest among the nations generally, all point to the approaching end of the age and the coming of the kingdom. How marvellously has the generation or race or nation of Israel been preserved for the fulfillment of all things (verse 34), and soon now shall they be recognized as a nation, perhaps under the suzerainty of Turkey, with Jerusalem as their capital. That will, however, mean for them the beginning of their great trouble (Jer. xxx, 7) ere Jerusalem shall become the throne of the Lord at His coming in glory to set up His kingdom. That Israel is God's fig tree as well as His vine, see Joel i, 7, and note the events of Joel iii in their order. The utter ungodliness of the days of Noah cannot be fully manifest until after the church is taken, but the manifestations already on every hand in church and state are most unmistakable. The war craze of nations, the unrighteousness of government in cities and states, the infidelity in the seminaries and in the pulpits, the disregard of God and His word everywhere, should compel us to cry, "Come, Lord Jesus." At the coming of Christ to the air for His saints the true church shall be taken, all others left, but at the coming to the earth with His saints at the end of the age the tares shall first be gathered in bundles for the burning. "Ready" is the great word for us all, as we saw in a recent lesson. No unsaved person, whether moral or immoral, sober or drunken, drunken according to Isa. xxviii, 7, or xxix, 9, is ready except for the burning, the weeping and gnashing of teeth (verse 51; xxv, 41). The readiness necessary has been provided in Jesus Christ by His saints the true church shall be His great atonement. His pure life, His death in our stead, suffering for our sins, His resurrection from the dead, and any who will not plead guilty and accept Him and His righteousness must perish and be separated from Him.

If we are redeemed and thus ready to meet Him we must never cease to watch and pray, lest the world, the flesh or the devil cause our light to fail or even to flicker, and we thus dishonor Him. "Faithful and wise" is the only motto that will enable us to be approved of Him (45). We must beware of saying or even of thinking, "My Lord delayeth His coming" (48), lest we be found careless and conformed in some measure to this present evil age. The oil of the next chapter must fill our lamps, and the light must so shine that men may see our good works and glorify our Father which is in heaven (Matt. v, 16). The only proper attitude of a child of God is "waiting for His Son from heaven," "looking for that blessed hope" (I Thess. i, 10; Titus ii, 13), and while thus expectantly waiting, aiming in all things to serve the living and true God. Ever ready to do whatever our Lord and King shall appoint (II Sam. xv, 15). "Ready to every good work" (Tit. iii, 1). "Ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear."

HISTORIC LONDON STREET.

The Scene of Little Dorrit's Girlhood to Be Blotted Out.

In the obliteration of Tabard street, London will do away with a road that is a disgrace to modern civilization yet one familiarly connected with the city's history, poetry and every circumstance of greatness. In the days before the new Dover road wheeled round from the borough into the Kentish highway, Tabard street was called Kent street and was the main approach to London from anywhere in Kent, from Canterbury, from the Cinque Ports, and so one might almost say from Europe.

Up that street nearly 600 years ago rode the Black Prince, conqueror at Poictiers, bringing with him in triumph the captive French King, a pageant compared with which these 20th century shows are but half hearted pieces of make believe. Up Tabard street swarmed the peasants of Kent under Wat Tyler and later on Jack Cade and his Kentish men, pouring in from the heart of England's industry, the "Lancashire lads" of that day.

Down Tabard street some time before either of these events the Canterbury Pilgrims clattered over the stone on their way to Becket's shrine.

Yet as long ago as the 13th century the street was a haunt of depravity and poverty. In Shakespeare's time it was shunned by all respectable folk. For centuries it was deplored that distinguished foreigners coming from the continent should get their first impression of London from Tabard street, and sometimes they used to be hurried through by night so that they would see as little of it as possible.

The recent resource of changing the name to something more poetic has had no effect. Vice and dirt seem to be in its very air, and since the creation of Dover road turned the stream of traffic elsewhere it has just quietly degenerated into a back slum.

Yet the very dingiest — though not the worst—features of Tabard street have a romance for us to-day because of Charles Dickens. Not a hundred yards from Tabard street Little Dorrit was born. At St. George's Church hard by she was married and there, too, the kindly beadle laid her to sleep with the burial register for pillow.

Even the old Marshalsea, the debtors' prison, where Mr. Dorrit was so distinguished a resident, where Dickens' own father was not unknown and to which Dickens himself paid many a visit as a boy—is still to be traced to a far greater extent than is imagined.

One has only to dive into Angel place — the little court on the left just before one comes to St. George's from London Bridge—to find the grim old walls of the Marshalsea standing as they stood a century ago. Following the old walls round by warehouses and offices flanked by grimy little paved alleys that are probably themselves Dickens survivals, one reaches the Southwark mortuary. Close by is a battered old door—once an actual door of the old Marshalsea. Here from across the alley close by the entrance to the mortuary over the wall one may catch a glimpse of the old Marshalsea belfry, practically just as it was when it rang out locking up time for Little Dorrit and her father. Coming round into St. George's churchyard one has completely encircled the famous old prison that was the world of little Dorrit's girlhood.

Royal Servants on Holiday.

The Royal servants will have a much longer holiday than usual this year. As a rule, all the servants except those required to be in personal attendance on Their Majesties would, in the ordinary course of events, be relieved from duty from August to October, when they usually returned to Buckingham Palace. But, as the Court will not be in London again until February, the servants will not be required to return to the palace before then.

A certain number of the Royal servants have, of course, gone to Balmoral, but the grooms of the chambers, the pages, and the state porters, as well as a number of the female staff, have been relieved of duty for the next four or five months.

Many of the late King's servants have been re-engaged in the new Royal household, but two of the most prominent have been pensioned off, namely, Mr. Menager, the former head chef, and Mr. Chandler, King Edward's valet. Mr. Chandler's son, it will be remembered, was recently killed in a motor-car accident.

When the Royal servants go on their holiday they must notify the Master of the Household, the Lord Chamberlain, or the Master of the Horse, according to the particular department of the household which they may be in, of their address, and they must be ready to return to duty within twenty-four hours if required to do so, unless they are specially exempted from service for a specified period.

Drumming Immigration.

All through the streets of London, especially in the Strand, one finds handsome shops, rented by various Colonial Governments, filled with most attractive exhibits of their various produce. Rhodesia is one of the latest Governments to start a shop of this kind, and there you can see not only amazing heads of maize and oats, but also beautiful furs, such as otter, the last thing you would expect to find from a tropical country; and you can buy cigarettes of Rhodesian-grown "Turkish" tobacco which compare favorably with the best weed from the Levant. This tobacco is grown near Buluwayo, where only a few years ago the wild Matabele fought and hunted.

Explore Island.

Bathurst Island has just been explored by a British Government expedition. It is situated some fifty miles from Port Darwin, Northern Australia, and has an area of 186 square miles. It is uninhabited, but it is well watered with fresh running streams, and has a fertile soil, capable of growing rice, rubber, cattle and tobacco.

MOTHERS SHOULD WATCH CLOSELY

DISEASED KIDNEYS THE CAUSE OF BED-WETTING.

Wellesley Young Man Permanently Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Gives the Public the Benefit of His Experience.

Wellesley, Ont. (Special).—That all diseases of the bladder from bed-wetting to Gravel are the direct results of Kidney Disease, has been proved again and again by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cure the Kidneys and the Bladder diseases speedily disappear. One of the latest proofs comes in the experience of Mr. George Strebel, the well-known harness-maker of this place.

"I was troubled with bed-wetting for many years," Mr. Strebel says. "The doctor could not give me relief and no one knows how I suffered. I tried many medicines, till in January, 1905, reading the experiences of others led me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Nine boxes cured me so completely that I have never been troubled since."

Mothers should learn that when their children are addicted to bed-wetting it is time to look to the cause. The Kidneys are the cause. Cure the Kidneys by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and not only stop the bed-wetting, but ward off serious and dangerous diseases in after life.

She Knew the Place

The elderly matron with the bundles, who was journeying to a point in Wisconsin and occupied a seat near the middle of the car, had fallen asleep. On the seat in front of her sat a little boy. The brakesman opened the door of the car and called out the name of the station the train was approaching. The elderly woman roused herself with a jerk.

"Where are we, Bobby?" she asked.

"I don't know grandma," answered the little boy.

"Didn't the brakeman say something just now?"

"No. He just stuck his head inside the door and sneezed."

"Help me with these things, Bobby," she exclaimed, hurriedly. "This is Osh-kosh. It's where we get off."—Youth's Companion.

THE PATIENT BRAIN.

A Tireless Worker So Long as Supplied With Rich, Red Blood

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work.

But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard it balks.

The brain insists on having plenty of good, red blood wherewith to renew its waste and from which to manufacture the nerve force supplied to the whole body.

Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, with the accompanying dread, suspicion and melancholy.

One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will overcome diseases of the nerves.

There is no other way. Stimulants arouse false hope. Narcotics deaden the nerves, and temporary relief is followed by a condition which is worse than the first.

Get the blood right and the nervous system will adjust itself. Headaches will disappear, irritability will go, digestion will improve, and weakness and despondency will give place to new hope and courage, new vigor and energy.

Mrs. Geo. Fuller, Lakeland, Man., writes:—"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of nervous headache, from which I was a great sufferer, and I am no longer troubled with twitchings of the nerves in the arms and legs."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

No Draughts in the Arctic

According to the New York Times, Commander Peary has said that when one is really prepared for it, the Arctic weather is not much worse than winter in New York or London. Indeed, there is a story concerning a certain passenger on a Pullman "sleeper" who complained bitterly to the porter of the constant draught in the car. And the other passengers it seems, were just a bit surprised when they read on his suitcase the name of the famous Arctic explorer who was destined later to reach the pole. You see there are no doors or windows in Greenland, and consequently there are no draughts.

Picnics are dry affairs—in prohibition territory.

THE RACKING PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

Can Only Be Cured Through the Blood—Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Which Act Directly On the Blood.

Rheumatism will rack you just as long as there is acid in the blood to cause rheumatism. That's the whole trouble—acid in the blood. Cold, damp weather may start the pains going but it is not the cause. That is rooted in the blood and can only be cured through the blood. Years ago when medical science did not know as much about the complaint as today, rheumatic sufferers were given something to rub on the swollen tender joints. Some people who do not know any better still adhere to the old fashioned way, but it does not cure their rheumatism—and never will.

When the acid is driven from the blood the rheumatism is gone—it's cured. The thing is to get the right medicine to drive the acid out. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than any other disease except anaemia. They do this because they enrich the blood supply, thus toning up the system to a point where the rheumatic acid is expelled through the natural channels and the trouble disappears. They were intended to do this and they do it thoroughly. Mr. Henry O'Donoghue, Viscount, Sask., says: "About four years ago I came here from Scotland for the purpose of taking up land. Even at so recent a date as this the country was quite different from what it is today. Then the nearest shack to me was ten miles distant, and the nearest town much further away. In those days homesteading was not all sunshine, and in the spring of 1907 I contracted a severe cold. I had never been sick in my life before, and paid no attention to the cold, and almost before I realized it I was down with an attack of pluerisy and as the pains of this trouble began to leave me those of rheumatism set in, and my sufferings were something terrible. Help was sent for, but it did me no good, nor did the medicine given me have any effect, and for five months I was confined to the house. Then one day I had an unexpected visit from my brother, who came from Australia, and whom I had not seen for nine years. When he saw my condition he at once urged me to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as he knew of a number of cases in which they had made marvellous cures in Australia. The result was he went to town and purchased six boxes, and before I had used the last box I was out working with my oxen and am now as healthy as any man in the province. For this I must thank the Pills and my brother's advice, and I strongly recommend the Pills to other rheumatic sufferers."

From Cabin Boy to Millionaire.

He is very wealthy now, but there was a day when Sir Thomas Lipton hadn't a penny. He started work as an errand boy; afterwards went to America as a cabin boy, and on arrival a hotel agent touted among the passengers. Seeing the boy forlorn and hearing he was destitute, the agent offered ten days' free board and lodging if he could bring twelve emigrants to his hotel. Young Lipton brightened up at once, because he had become very friendly with the emigrants through writing their letters, he being the only one in the steerage who could read and write. The emigrants were quit willing to go to the hotel, and the boy got his free board and time to look round for a berth.

To-day Sir Thomas, who is going on a voyage to Ceylon in his yacht Erin is probably the greatest clubman of the world, for he is honorary member of nearly a hundred clubs in America alone, besides many dozens in Great Britain. A confirmed bachelor, Sir Thomas has been the most "Press-married" man in the Kingdom, rumors having been frequently afloat of his impending marriage. In this connection, he has told a very amusing story of a somewhat nasty trick that was played on a bachelor friend of his own. A lady was one day reproaching him for never having married, when her husband remarked good-humoredly: "He says he could have cut me out and married you if he had wanted to." "Indeed," she exclaimed, with some asperity, "Why didn't he do it then?" "He says," was the calm reply, "that he owed me a grudge."

Record of the Black Death.

"The black death" is the name the plague, or Asiatic cholera, used to be called by, and there is nothing more tragic in all the history of man than the record of the "black death" in Europe. In the 14th. century one epidemic after another spread among the people. Twenty-five millions of human beings are believed to have perished in this single series of epidemics. Rich and poor alike were affected. In Oxford two-thirds of the student population died. In Constantinople the people died at the rate of 10,000 a day. Charms, incantations, fear, filth, ignorance and superstition fed the disease.

Curious results came of the long period of panic and of dying. The famous "dance of death," in which desperate human beings parodied and made fun of the plague, illustrating the "dance of death" with grinning skulls and skeletons, was one feature. Another, curiously enough, in England, was the tremendous rise in the cost of labor. The workmen died so fast that there were few left to do the work, and the few that could work were offered extravagant wages—although laws were passed to keep the wages down. It is said that this sudden rise in wages laid the foundation of the emancipation of working people in England.

An Abstract Idea.

At a card party at Charles Lamb's Hazlitt and Lamb's brother got into a discussion as to whether Holbein's coloring was as good as that of Van Dyck. At length they became so excited that they upset the table and seized each other by the throat. In the struggle Hazlitt got a black eye, but when the combatants were parted Hazlitt turned to Talfourd, who was offering his aid, and said: "You need not trouble yourself, sir. I do not mind a blow, sir. Nothing affects me but an abstract idea!"

The Spencer.

Words have been added to the English language as the result of wagers. The third Lord Spencer bet that by cutting off the tail part of his overcoat he could bring into fashion overcoats so short that the skirts of the undercoat would show beneath. He won his wage, and "Spencer" became the name both of that garment and of the feminine one afterward constructed in its likeness.

In the Air.

East Wind—Well, they have us harnessed. West Wind—Yes, but they can't drive us tandem.

Heretic.

The word "heretic" is derived from the Greek haireo, to take or choose for oneself.

For over twenty years her husband was a hard drinker. He had tried in every way to stop but could not do so, but nine years ago she stopped his drinking entirely by using a simple remedy which any one can give secretly. Hundreds have freed their homes from drink by following her advice. The method is easy and sure. If you have a dear one who drinks we earnestly advise you to write to her at once. She makes no charge for her help, (she asks for no money and accepts none) she only asks that you are personally interested in saving one who drinks. Send your letter with confidence to her home. Here is her address—
